Second page of Website, is also a graggable image that I took of someone surfing. This one will stay in place.

Third page of Website has images in the same place and you only see them once the first image on top moves.

It then takes you through about eight photos which you can move and place wherever.

Once you have moved them around if you click the last one you will move to the next page.

Wich then would of brought you to a sight that was like this where each of the images would do something different, such as spin or move/ stretch in an intersting and interactive way
